Poetry.

The wind blows out, the wind blows in,
The rain beats hard and the snow is thin;
The ice is forming on pond and lake,
And the bird to the distant south must take.

The days are short and the nights are long,
The wind is cold and the birds are song;
The flowers have withered from the plain,
And winter reigns in their place again.

Departed spirits of summer days,
Who love to sport in the solar rays,
Where are you now when the storm is nigh?
Do you fly before it or down you lie?

"We fly before it and reign in air,
We are not known to mortals there;
But when the storm is overpast,
We return and govern the winds at last."

Thus the summer birds migrate away,
Where they remain I cannot say;
But hope in spring they will return,
And with their songs the valleys adorn.

So when the storms of life are nigh,
Upon our passage to the sky,
Let us like birds of summer flee
To where the storms can never be.

We cannot fly as the birds of air,
But we can walk in the narrow care
That leads us on to the realms of bliss,
Where all is calm and happiness.

Then let us leave this world of sin,
Where storms of evil are raging in,
And seek a home beyond the sky,
Where storms shall never come nigh.

Japanese Bonnet.

SATURDAY, 6th MARCH, 1880.

Times are looking up in Great Britain. The exports have increased over two million dollars in the year ending June, 1879.

Among all the Acts passed by the Legislature of the Dutch Province of New York, applied pending on the 17th of March, several of them have determined to have a saloon not in honor of their patron saint.

The interest in Ireland is increasing, and of course the necessity for relief. While many suggestions have been made, Nagasan is still unsuggestive, though there has been a subscription opened by private enterprise.

Bismarck is feeling that the ease and ease of his days exhausting life are beginning to tell on his iron frame. He declares that a colleague shall be appointed to assist him. Otherwise he will be compelled to resign. Prince Hohenlohe has been recalled from Paris with the understood design of making him Bismarck's colleague. The first question to be favorable to peace. Then there is great pressure in Germany for the removal of the Socialist law, but the French have no use. His designs against Germany, but they say that he will always be ready to carry out their plans of industrial and commercial progress.

In a great many cases there is undoubtedly grumbling over the cost of the large appropriations of $500,000 on new parliamentary buildings for Ontario. It is true that we could better afford to devote a smaller sum to this purpose; still it cannot be said that the expenditure is extravagant or untimely. Another proof of the advisability of new buildings is the fact of the loss by the burning of the temporary buildings of New Brunswick, the loss by the destruction of the library alone being $46,000. This is a loss that cannot be repaired; no amount of money can replace the records of the valuable papers and documents that destroyed. Our own eighty parliamentary buildings in Toronto are a special invitation to the operations of fire.

Less.—Less is not the only real whom extraction stalks in evil, or whom frightful calamities are creeping off the miserable populations. In Hungary and Silesia there is misery famine, and in Persia the cholera is sweeping off its victims by thousands. In one of the drought-stricken provinces of Brazil two hundred thousand persons have died from starvation, and these are dying by hundreds from pestilence. The government is now feeding a quarter of a million of people. In Russia, death takes another form. In one Russian province alone many thousands of the inhabitants have been carried off by diphtheria. In this case it is pretty plain that general dirt has generated and fostered general disease and death.

Two two great political parties in Ontario are now on the same footing. When the Tories nobly remonstrated with the Grits for the slight extravagance of the Local Government & Co's. party, and the latter applied the to grace or "you're another" expressed to the position. Then the Tories said, as an excuse for the plunder of their official trips, that they had the example of the party in power. To the average political mind this was placing the "party of purity" in a false position, and accordingly, on Friday last the Mills bill for taxation was re-introduced. Now the thing is apparent, and the Tories are forced to refrain from attaching to the ingenuity of the battle, and the patient public fall into line and calmly contribute to keep the aforesaid pot and bottle boiling.

New Regime is the paradise for conjugal experience, who, by contracting matrimonial ties, find that they have come into possession of a white elephant. Between the years 1860 and 1879 there have been granted in the state of Massachusetts seven thousand two hundred and thirty-three divorces. Over three thousand were set at liberty on the grounds of desertion and cruelty, and over two thousands on the grounds of adultery, the women in the great majority of instances being the appellants. The state is increasing, for in '60 the divorces were only two hundred and thirteen per year, while in '79 they had grown to six hundred in the year. The ratio of divorces to marriages was one in twenty-one, that is only one least out of twenty-one stood the test of time and temper. Connecticut however beats this ratio. In this state the ratio of divorce is one to eleven. Nearly a tenth of those who marry is divorced. What a land of wickedness and sorrow, with living pencils, these states must be!

The present famine in Ireland is overshadowing a small cloud, if carried to a sufficient extent, will greatly diminish the probabilities of a recurrence of the famine of 1847 and 1880, and cause the extinction of Home Rule agitation and Land League. Hundreds of thousands of the peasantry literally starving. Despite the Land Act, and if one found that one of the most fruitful causes of the famine was the subdivision of the farms, it could not be a safety first. The farms were opened out from time to time by several tenths. On Thursday, Feb. 26th, seven townlands were evicted at New York, because they were unable to pay £1,200 rent. This is only fair. This is a statement of the facts, which, with a determination to carry out the spirit of the existing legislation themself. By changing the interest from the landlord to the tenant, the latter is enabled to pay the rent, and the former is enabled to pay the rent, and the latter is enabled to pay the rent, and the former is enabled to pay the rent, and the latter is enabled to pay the rent, and the former is enabled to pay the rent, and Social.

Mrs. J. Gilliland will give a table social at her residence, East street, on Tuesday evening next. The public are invited to attend.

County Council.

The March session of the County Council opens in the Court House, Napanee, on Tuesday next—some time between ten and an o'clock p. m. This will be an interesting and important session, and legislation will be effected largely affecting the most important interests of the county—for weal or for woe.

Public Temperance Meeting.

A meeting under the auspices of Napanee Lodge I.O.G.T. will be held in the town hall on Tuesday evening next, at 7 30 o'clock. Short addresses by Rev. F. Chisholm, Mr. Samuel Capper, and clergymen of the town. Chair will be occupied by F. Storr, Esq., warden of the county.

Good for Erinvilles.

Last week Rev. Father O'Donoghue sent them the Dominion Hall of this place $11; the contributions of his flock in the world's starving poor of Ireland. The hall of this town was used for the concert and the remaining portion to Tipperary. And the parish of Ernesville is not a wealthy one either.

Another Reminder.

Last week we intimated as politely as possible that the amounts due us for our subscribers in arrears would not be despised. Many have responded, but there are still another whom we are compelled to address a second intimation and we should feel obliged if they would respond next week. During the time there are four hundred dollars of subscriptions and paid up will be more acceptable and useful to us than all any other time. Can you guess per up.

Best tobacco spurs up in the pipe while smoking, with little crackling explosions. This is caused by the presence of a large number of resin in the combustion. When the purity of the tobacco is not tampered with and properly taken care of, this combustible brings neither is chiefly consumed. For in that case it burns at a better temperature, then absorbs anything else. Nothing of juice itself is seen in smoking the "Myrtle Navy." It burns with steady combustion throughout.
